Web Page Report

Our group will be creating an information site for visitors to gather and collect unbiased information about a man named Francis Pencovic. The primary color will be light blue to achieve the calm and professional demeanor we are desiring to portray. To make the website available to all sorts of users, we will have fluid images and several media queries. We do not currently plan to make any particular accommodations for people with disabilities, however we are open to suggestions. Though subject to change, we do not currently lean towards any particular fonts, thus the font on all pages would be the default, sans-serif.

The purpose of the website will be to inform the visitors about Francis Pencovic and his relation to the WKFL cult. Our mission statement will primarily focus on ensuring that readers understand that we, the creators of the website, do not support or condone any of the views or beliefs espoused by the now-defunct WKFL cult, nor are we associated with it in any way. A member of the group has distant family relations to Mr. Pencovic and simply wants to share family archives in a way that one could compare different sources of information.
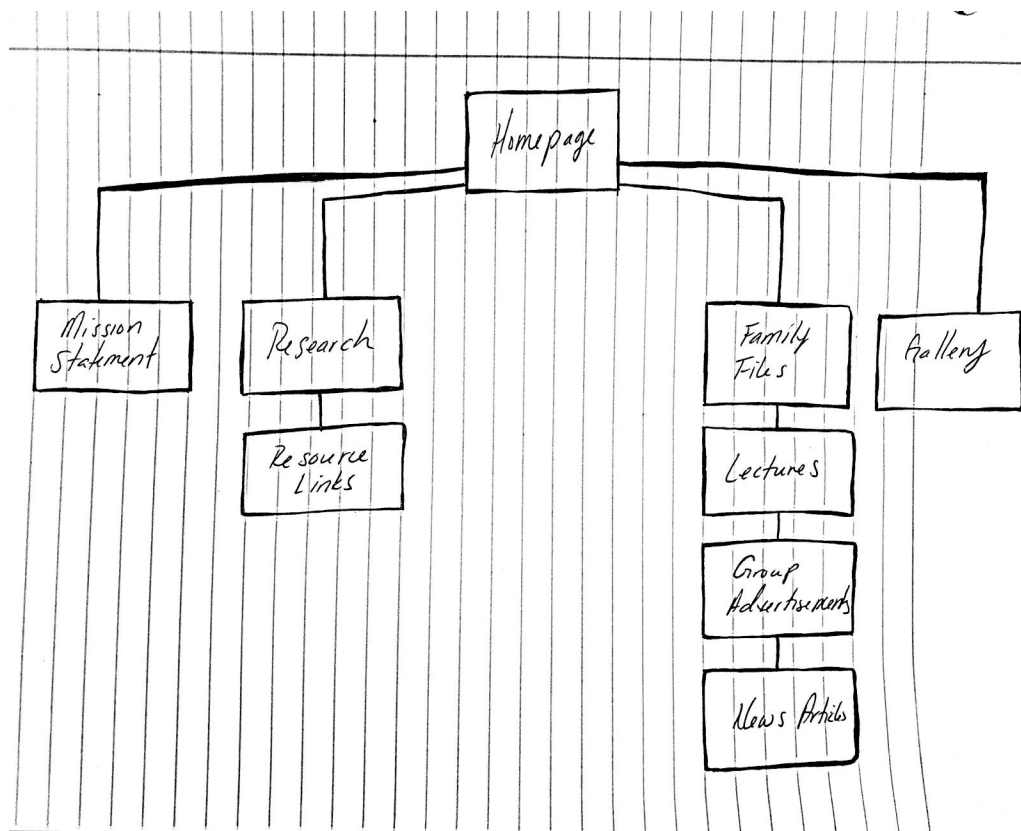

Our target audience will probably be conspiracy theorists mostly, whom we believe will visit the website to learn more about a subject currently shrouded in mystery, in order to assist them in making up their mind regarding their stance towards the subject.

Roughly six or so web pages will be included in the final site: The home page, a research page, a family files page, our mission statement page, a gallery page, and a template that will not be displayed, but rather used for development purposes.
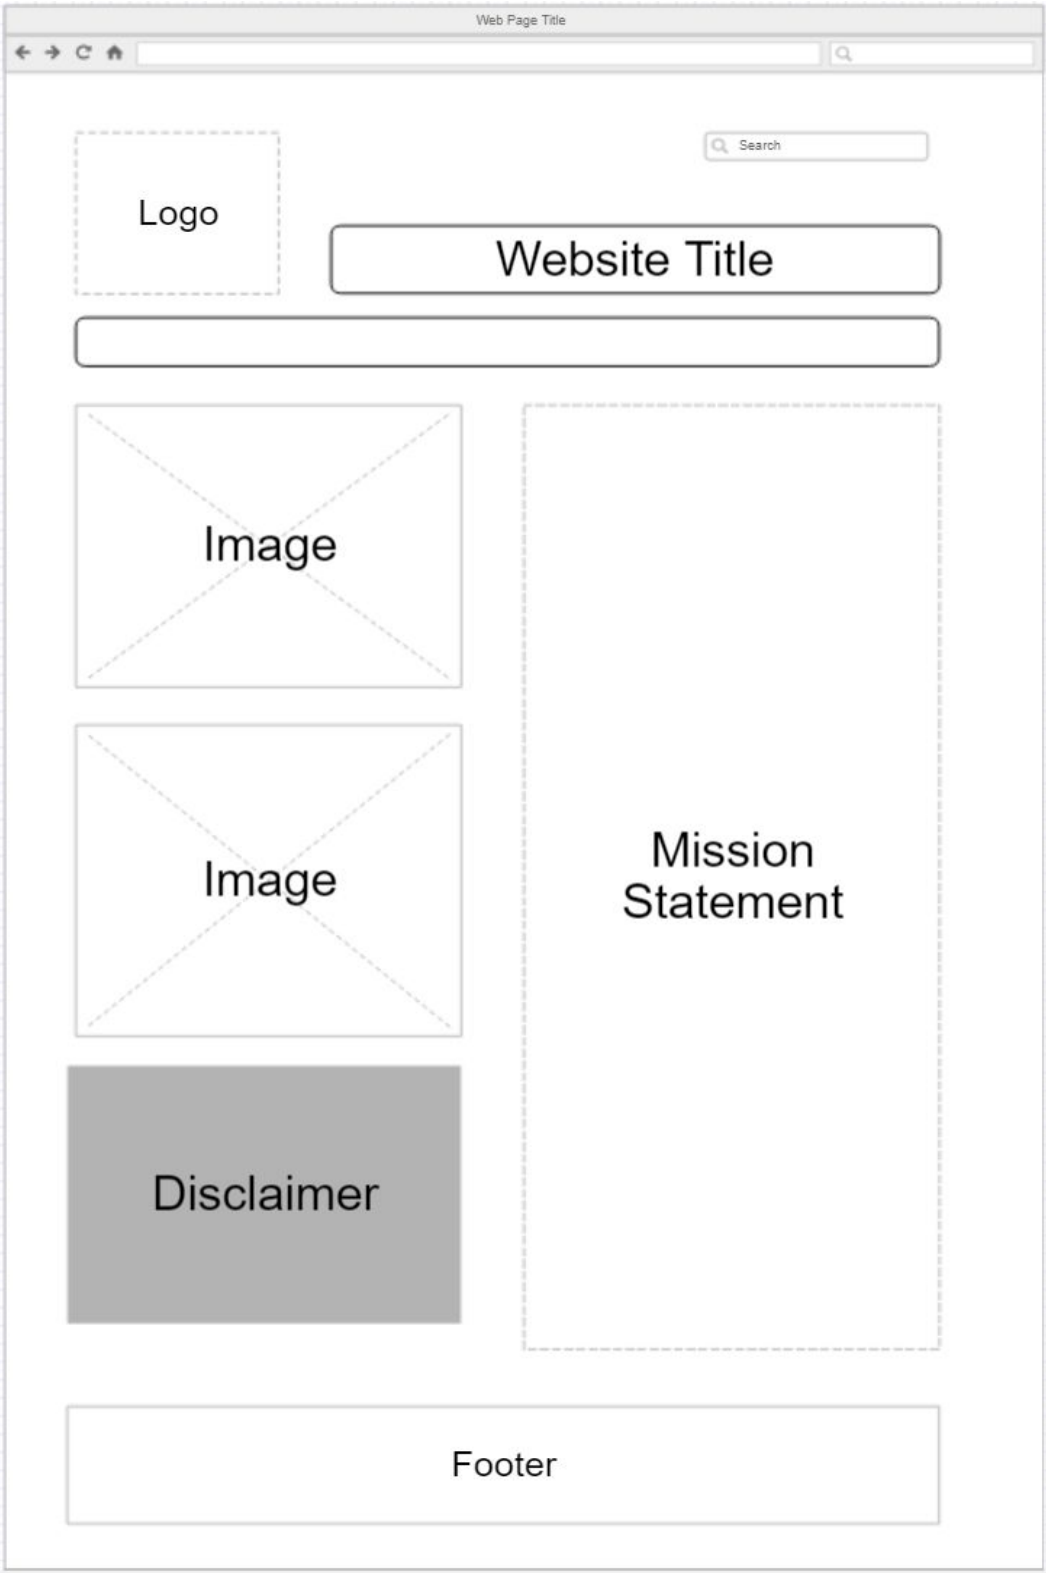

A single css page will apply formatting to all html pages, and all images will be located in an images folder, with subfolders denoting which page the images are located on. The gallery page will have a photo gallery web app. Also, all the pages will have gradients to enhance the appearance of them.

As for the graphics that will be used, the cult logo will be at the top left of every page. Almost all of the pages will include images of the cult and its members, and images of relevant documents, some written by Francis Pencovic himself.
